
Sec. 94-341. - Intent, conflicting regulations and scope.

- a. Intent. The intent of this article is to provide design standards and specifications for all subdivisions created pursuant to this chapter.
- b. Conflicting regulations. Whenever any provision of this article imposes more stringent requirements or limitations than required by the provisions of any other ordinance or portion of this chapter, then the provisions of this article shall govern. Whenever the provisions of any or other ordinance or portion of this chapter impose more stringent requirements than imposed by this article, then the provisions of such ordinance or portion of this chapter shall govern.
- c. Scope. The requirements of this article apply to all subdivisions of land throughout the city and portions of the county, which are subject to review and approval pursuant to this chapter.

(Code 1979, § 33-130)